

COUNTER PROPOSALS WILL BE REPLY OF GERMANS TO ALLIED TERMS, PROCLAMATION SAYS

"Peace of Right" Demanded By President of the Teutonic Republic.

TREATY MEANS "SLAVERY"

bert Appeals to the Populace to Cast Off Partisan Differences and Stand By the Government for the "Triumph of Reason and Right."

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Friday, May 9 (via Copenhagen).—Germany's reply to the terms of peace presented at Versailles on Wednesday will be a proposal "for a peace of right on the basis of a lasting peace of the nations," according to a proclamation to the German people issued here today by President Ebert.

The proclamation says the treaty would "deliver German labor to foreign capitalism for the indignity of wage slavery and permanently fetter the young German republic."

The proclamation closes with an appeal to the German people to stand together, knowing "no party" and "to preserve with the government mutual trust in the path of duty in the belief of the triumph of reason and right."

PARIS, May 10.—President Wilson expressed the belief today that nothing would be heard from the German plenipotentiaries for about a week. Neither he nor the other members of the American delegation has heard anything regarding the published reports that the German delegates were preparing to depart from Versailles.

PARIS, May 10.—The German peace plenipotentiaries are at perfect liberty to return to Berlin and consult their government if they desire so to do, it is reported in conference circles. Such a move if made would not mean the breaking off of negotiations.

The Germans, it is said, may enjoy entire freedom of movement and diplomatic immunity.

PARIS, May 10.—The Austrian peace delegates will leave Vienna on Monday and reach Paris by Wednesday. The French foreign office was advised today. Previous advice had indicated that the Austrian delegation was expected to reach Paris Monday.

VICTORY LOAN OVER THE TOP IS INTIMATION

Victory Ship Calhoun Anchored Off Sandy Hook, Awaiting Orders to Enter Port.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Although there were no official predictions or estimates there were many indications today that the Victory-Liberty Loan has successfully passed "over the top."

The destroyer Calhoun, the new Victory ship which is recording subscriptions to the Victory Loan by the progress of her voyage from the Pacific coast to New York, anchored off Sandy Hook at noon today.

The Navy Department announced that the vessel was awaiting an announcement that the loan had been fully subscribed before putting into harbor.

MOUNT PLEASANT OVER

Subscription of $25,000 Puts Town on Honor Roll.

Mount Pleasant went over the top in the Victory-Liberty Loan shortly after noon today when a $25,000 subscription by James S. Braddock sent the total of the town away over its quota. The amount assigned to Mount Pleasant was $281,100 and although the exact figures on total subscriptions were not available, the campaign committee said that mark had been passed by a big margin.

Immediately on reaching the coast the honor flag for Mount Pleasant was hung from the First National bank building.

FIRST PAYMENT IS LACKING ON MANY PLEDGES TO LOAN

If All Are Made By Night District Will Have $1,300,000 to Report.

MANY ARE DELINQUENT

Announcement This Afternoon Shows That Only $223,350 Could at This Time Be Reported to Federal Reserve Bank as Bondside Subscription.

That the Connellsville district will be able to report $1,300,000 in the Victory Loan drive was the estimate this morning of E. T. Norton. Payments are slowly coming in from the mountain districts and many persons are getting the first payments of 10 per cent in on their bonds today.

Today is the last day of the drive and as only authentic subscriptions can be reported to the federal reserve banks by the local institutions every one is urged to have the first payment made before the day is over.

When the active campaign in Connellsville closed last week with the city away over the top the amount reported was $1,059,306. Reports of the banks, compiled last night, showed that for the entire Connellsville district first payments have been made on only $223,350. More payments made this morning could not be compiled and this figure is expected to take a big jump by night.

Connellsville solicitors who continued their efforts in the mountain districts after the drive here had closed are largely responsible for the good showing the district is making as a whole. Automobile parties would make all day trips to the parts of the district where canvassing was lagging and by their energetic efforts would instill the solicitors of these districts with the enthusiasm for going after bonds and getting their townships over the top.

Stewart township, was canvassed by local men yesterday and some substantial subscriptions were secured. The solicitors who went into that territory found the main reason the campaign lagged there was because the men of the township, who had been selected to do the canvassing had not taken hold in many instances. Some were found who had not even opened their envelopes of supplies. Connellsville men were not sufficient to put that township over the top but they helped materially in boosting the district total.

A grand last hour rally is being made here today as well as throughout the nation so that America shall not go down as failing to back her soldiers in the last war loan campaign and persons who wish to make subscriptions should not wait to be asked but will demonstrate their patriotism by going to a bank and voluntarily taking out the Victory bonds.

FIGHT IS COMING ON "SEARCH AND SEIZURE" CLAUSE OF FOX BILL

"Drys" Will Protest Effort to Incorporate Amendment in the Enforcement Measure in House.

HARRISBURG, May 10.—The question whether a committee of the House of Representatives can strike from a bill an amendment made by the House before the bill is referred to committee will be threshed out on Monday night in the lower branch of the Legislature when the Fox prohibition enforcement bill, backed by the Anti-Saloon League, is reached on third reading.

The printed copies of the bill, purporting to show the bill as amended in the Law and Order Committee on Wednesday, were distributed yesterday. They show that the amendment incorporating the right of "search and seizure" inserted by Representative W. C. Alexander of Delaware county on the floor Tuesday morning, is in the bill. The Law and Order Committee ordered it stricken out. Members of the committee will assail the action of the printer and demand to know by what authority the amendment was left in the bill.

Liquor interests were behind insertion of the amendment and are said to have been contending that they have parliamentary practice on this side. They have been having much to do with the decision of the House, and will resist the efforts of the "drys" to throw out the amendment. The "drys" say it was contrary to action of the committee and a scheme to make the bill unpopular.

RAISE IS VETOED

Bill Increasing Salaries of Court Employees Turned Down by Sprout.

HARRISBURG, May 10.—The bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Crow, providing for an increase in the salaries of court officers, stipendiaries and interpreters in counties having a population from 150,000 to 1,000,000, was vetoed by Governor Sprout yesterday, on the ground that the sessions of court require court employees to serve only a part of the time.

"The time when the court officers and stipendiaries are not required in service in court they do other work and earn a full year's wages," the governor says. "Our information is that most of the county commissioners are opposed to the bill."

Comrade of Private Charles S. Kirschman Recovers the Treasure.

ANNA CUPCHECK WRITER

A letter she wrote to a friend in France, pierced by a fragment of a high explosive shell which struck over his heart, causing his instant death in the battle of the Argonne forests, was returned to Miss Anna Cupcheck of Broad Ford, who is employed as a waitress at the Manhattan cafe, Connellsville. The friend, Private Charles S. Kirschman, Company F, 51st Infantry, fell in October. Corporal Anderson, commander of Kirschman's squad, witnessed the deed and took charge of the private's effects, among them the letter from Miss Cupcheck. The letter arrived last week from Chicago, having been mailed by Robert P. Clemens, who is in a hospital there with Corporal Anderson, the latter having lost both arms in battle. Private Kirschman was a resident of Philadelphia and it was there he and Miss Cupcheck met, becoming fast friends. He had visited at Broad Ford. Previous to the receipt of the letter Miss Cupcheck had been notified Corporal Anderson had it. She wrote for it. With the treasure came the following letter:

"Your letter of April 25 was received and I with pleasure am enclosing the letter, also relating the circumstances of the death of your friend, Charles, as described by Mr. Anderson."

"You no doubt remember that Mr. Anderson lost both arms later, but I am going to use the first person in this narration as he would write it if he could."

"Charles S. Kirschman came to Camp Greene, N. C., during the month of February, 1918. He was placed in the squad of which I was corporal. We were in intensive training until June 15, 1918, when we were moved up to the front in the Alsace and later the Lorraine sector. These sectors were termed quiet sectors and we had very few casualties."

"In July we were given our first real baptism of fire as we were then moved to St. Mihiel where my squad lost its first man. It was here that my friendship for Charles was strengthened, and the roar of guns and the cries of the wounded, a time of intense strain and high tension, each realizing that he might be next."

"Strenuous times such as these never fail to show just how much of a man we in reality are, laying bare all defects of character. But I take very great pleasure in repeating our friendship for Charles was strengthened, and the roar of guns and the cries of the wounded, a time of intense strain and high tension, each realizing that he might be next."

But I take very great pleasure in repeating our friendship for Charles was strengthened, and the roar of guns and the cries of the wounded, a time of intense strain and high tension, each realizing that he might be next."

"This while actively defending the principles of humanity he was called upon to make the supreme sacrifice. A hero, an ideal soldier, and a true American who worshipped his flag and helped to redeem this world by means of his own blood. Oh! what a consolation it is to say that he and his other brave fellow men have not died in vain. His morals were beyond criticism and I am sure he is rewarded for his faith in the God above."

"A few days after I lost both of my arms while doing my bit, it may be of interest to also state that only one man remained in the squad when I was injured."

"This I trust explains fully and I wish to state that if I have omitted anything to just write and I will furnish it."

COMPANY D WILL REACH PORT SUNDAY MORNING, IS THE NEWS WIRELESS FROM TRANSPORT

Belief at Headquarters is That Fayette County Will Uphold Record.

MILLION TODAY NEEDED TO PUT THE LOAN OVER

One Who Hesitates Today Will Have Passed Up Privilege of Investing in the Final Loan Offered by Government for Meeting War's Expense.

The hours of the Victory-Liberty Loan campaign are numbered and an outpouring of gold by the civilian army enrolling for Victory presages the success of the Fayette county drive although it cannot be determined until the tabulation late this evening whether the goal of $6,049,550 will be reached. Banks throughout the county today are giving the loan the right of way to the exclusion of regular banking business and will remain open until late this evening to accommodate eleven hour investors in Victory.

A cool million dollars must be subscribed today to make the campaign a success and Fayette county is going after that figure today in a quietly determined manner. The campaign in the last day is centering in the banks although solicitors everywhere are making a last minute canvass of the territory assigned them and every available dollar will be added to the immense figure which must be subscribed today. People who failed to make their pledge to solicitors are keeping bank clerks busy filling in their applications.

Last minute realization of the double opportunity afforded in the Victory notes to serve a highly patriotic cause and make a safe investment is taking the Victory Loan over. The hours of that opportunity are now numbered on the clock and this evening will see the Victory Loan books officially closed. Until the banks close this evening, however, every accommodation will be afforded the purchaser to back up his patriotism.

Without the emotion of war and its appeal to patriotic impulses Fayette county has conducted a steady and convincing campaign, which if today's sales meet expectations of loan managers will round out a war record of having met every call to the utmost, either in men, fuel, or money. Its loans have all been oversubscribed and its coke production in war-time was increased to a degree little appreciated for the sudden ending of the war last November. When the Victory Loan was announced, Fayette county quickly set about clearing the decks to pay off its war debts by investing in the issue. It is meeting the last demand today and when the totals are tabulated it will have been found that Fayette county responded to the utmost.

DAY AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

Goodly Representation of People from Connellsville, Scottsdale and Other Places Off to See Soldiers of the Famous "Fighting" 110th Infantry.

Large and successful was a dance given last night at the armory, over one hundred and eighty couples representing virtually all parts of the county, being in attendance. The dance was the first of a series planned for the benefit of the soldiers' home—coming celebration and was perfect in all its appointments. Not the slightest detail was overlooked by the committee, composed of B. E. Shaw, Fred Sweeney, Howard Frankenberg, Russell Vaughn and Harry Perry. In looking after the success of the benefit and all present had a general good time. On account of the inclement weather, dancing was kept up an hour longer following a request by the guests. Kifer's six-piece jazz orchestra furnished the music and the popular musicians were at their best. Novelties of the evening were the shadow waltz and the lucky spot dance, the object of the latter dance being to find a lucky spot, a prize, a two-pound box of candy being awarded to W. J. Adams and Miss Minnie Behrens. The floor was in excellent condition and never did the large auditorium present a more striking appearance. The decorations were entirely patriotic. Large flags and bunting were profusely used. At one end of the hall was artistically arranged a cluster of flags of all nations. Vocal solos rendered during the evening by Lester Crawford and "Dime" Gatto, the latter of Uniontown, were well received. The committee is making plans to have the next of the series, the date for which will be announced soon, a greater success than the opening dance. As yet the proceeds, derived from the dance are not known. Photographer Ralph Ward took a flash light of the dancers.

Liberty Circle No. 430 of the Protected Home Circle held its first-inauguration social in Markell hall last evening. State Deputy W. C. Cochran of Altoona and District Deputy Miss Emma Stanley of Uniontown, were present. Dancing and various games were the features of the evening. AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN CUTTING SHOE EXPENSE

"Many months of comfort at little expense" is the way Charles A. Pearson of San Diego, California, sums up his experience with Neolin Soles. Mr. Pearson had two pairs of shoes re-soled with Neolin Soles, and after wearing them for twenty months writes "I will have to get new shoes sometime, but so long as the soles are concerned, that time seems as far distant as when they were new."

This is typical of the experience millions are having with Neolin Soles. Created by Science to be durable, flexible and waterproof, these soles are an important factor in cutting shoe expense. You can get them on new shoes for the whole family, and for re-soles. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Hosiery—guaranteed to outwear all other hosiery.

NEGRO SOLDIER GETS INTO PECK OF TROUBLE HERE

Jordan Taylor Runs Amuck and Badly Uses Up Several Persons in Mad Attacks.

Charged with assault and battery by J. M. Doyle and mayhem by C. E. Stillwagon, Jordan Taylor, colored, was held for court after being given a hearing before Alderman Fred Munk this morning. He received a 30-day jail sentence from the mayor, also on charges of disorderly conduct and fighting.

Taylor, who has just recently been discharged from the Army, ran amuck last night and attacked several without apparent reason. Among these were Mr. Doyle and Mr. Stillwagon. Trize Jackson, a negro, also arrested for disorderly conduct and fighting, got 30 days from the mayor this morning. She was found in Decatur alley with Taylor when he was arrested. It is believed that he negro assaulted her also as she was badly bruised about the face. Firemen Harry Bower and John Nes made the arrests. When Mr. Doyle was returning to his home last evening he passed Taylor and two others in Meadow lane. Taylor jumped on his back and bore him to the ground.

Taylor next ran afoul of C. E. Stillwagon and clenching with him, used his teeth, biting so severely that medical attention was necessary. Taylor then went to his home in North alley and during a brawl there Taylor, it is said, struck Marshall Johnson, another negro, over the head with a beer bottle, rendering him unconscious. Hearing the cries of a woman just off Pittsburgh street, on North alley the police investigated and found Taylor and the Jackson girl tussling about. Both were arrested. Taylor is said by the police to be a bad man, having been arrested before.

BOY SCOUTS WILL GIVE EXHIBITION AT HIGH SCHOOL

Play Will Be to Demonstrate
What They Learn After Joining Organization.

CRACK PATROL SELECTED

Will Be Known as "Headquarters
Patrol" Is Announced by the Scout Commissioner; H. L. Kropps Is New Scoutmaster, Troop 1; Other Notes.

"A Scout Is Trustworthy." The next event to be staged by the Connellsville Boy Scouts will be the play to be given at the high school auditorium later this month. In this play the members of the different troops will appear in various demonstrations such as first aid, signaling, knot tying, and various other things a boy learns when he becomes a scout.

The play is to be given in a fashion that it will be interesting to spectators as Connellsville people will have their first opportunity for seeing just how a boy advances after he is enrolled as a scout. One object of the scout play is to get the Connellsville people interested in scouting. The movement has grown much in the last year and an active local council has been organized. Now it is the plan to have the people as a whole back of the organization which teaches boys the cleaner and better things of life.

The "Headquarters Patrol" has been announced. Scout Commissioner R. C. Witt has selected from the different troops nine scouts, eight active and one candidate to make up this patrol. Then has been quite a lot of interest among the scouts as to who would be chosen for this patrol, as many applications had been made. The patrol's permanent committee of the best scouts from each troop, representing the cream of the organization in this city. The commissioner will be in charge of the patrol, which will do special demonstration work and be ready for a call at any time for emergencies. The boys will be trained to perfection in scout work.

The "Headquarters Patrol" will be in charge of the scout headquarters at the city hall. When the quarters are opened for business at least one scout will be on duty each day. The members who make up the patrol are: Charles Storey, patrol leader, second class, Troop No. 1; Kirk Mitchell, assistant patrol leader, first class, Troop No. 2; Roger Linsinger, scribe, first class, Troop No. 2; Robert Carpenter, second class, Troop No. 4; Ray Henry, second class, Troop No. 1; Grant Clark, first class, Troop No. 2; Donald Wilson, first class, Troop No. 1; Mark Engleke, first class, Troop No. 4; Leslie Ramage, candidate, first class, Troop No. 5.

The first demonstration of the "Headquarters Patrol" will be before the fire and police departments under the direction of the Red Cross. The boys will give the "Schaffer" or prone method of artificial respiration, used in case of a water or electrical accident.

The registration cards of Troop No. 1 have arrived and will be given out at Monday night's meeting. Every member of the troop is urged to be present and receive his card.

Troop No. 4 now has a full roster with several on its waiting list. It will be impossible for more boys to be taken in Troop No. 4 at the present time. Other troops still have vacancies, however.

Assistant Scoutmaster Glass of Troop No. 2 is training the special squad to represent the troop in the play to be given this month.

H. L. Kropps is the new scoutmaster of Troop No. 1, succeeding R. C. Witt who was recently named scout commissioner to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of A. O. Stone, now scout executive of Beaver

Signs Of Disease

The first signs of disease are a Poor Complexion, Weakness, Emaciation and Lack of Vitality.

The first sign of returning health is increase of flesh, strength and vigor. Body weakness, emaciation and lack of vitality simply means that certain substances in the blood, which go to make up the blood and nerves, have become exhausted and to renew flesh, muscle and strength, the iron must be restored. Dr. Cass's Blood and Nerve Tonic is the most active and condensed form with such tonics as Nux Vomica, Gentian, Aloin, Capsicum and Zinc Phosphate which makes them a powerful flesh and strength maker and a wonderful restorative to the nerves, improving the tint of health to the weak, emaciated, convalescent and over-worked. Sold by Druggists at 60 cents per bottle. (Stronger, more Active than any.)

county. William Truby, John Smith, Ora C. Glass and Charles Harsh are his assistants.

The hike of Saturday, May 3, was a booster in "Scouting" in the near future. Nine boys under the leadership of Scout Commissioner R. C. Witt started at 9:15 from the Baltimore & Ohio "Y" on a hike to Tate's hollow, about six miles from the city.

On their way the scouts had an observation contest, to see which scout observed the most things. Scout Robert Carpenter won. They arrived at their destination at 11:30. Each scout cooked his dinner as soon as possible, after which the following tests were passed: Fire building for second class, Scout Larue, Scout Cecil; cooking for second class, Scout Cecil; compass for second class, Scout Cecil; signaling for first class, Scout Robert Carpenter; tree naming, which is in nature study for first class, Scout Robert Carpenter.

Signaling was practiced by different scouts. Then soccer ball and the scout flag game were played. Scout Mitchell's side won in the flag game by capturing the opponent's flag. Supper was prepared after which the scouts put out their fires, cleaned up and hit the trail for home.

Reasons Why Michelin Tires Have Become So Popular

Consider the following facts about Michelin Universals, and see if you do not agree that you should use these tires. Now is the time to reach a decision—which, if properly made, will spare you much expense and annoyance during the months ahead.

1—UNEQUALLED EXPERIENCE. The illustration shows Michelin demonstrating the world's first pneumatic automobile tire, which he introduced in 1895. For 24 years Michelin has concentrated on pneumatic tires exclusively. No other tire maker has this unequalled experience.

2—BETTER MATERIALS. The quality of the materials used in Michelin Casings and Inner Tubes has always been the best that money can buy. This well-known fact largely accounts for the superior durability and economy for which Michelin Tires are famous the world over.

3—THICKNESS. Measure the thickness of Michelin Universals in comparison with other makes and you will find they contain more rubber and fabric than do other tires. All this extra material is of the highest quality, as already stated, and hence means greater mileage.

4—EXTRA WEIGHT. A simple comparative test will also show you that Michelin Universals weigh twelve to fifteen per cent more than other tires—additional proof that Michelines are more generously made and have greater mileage built into them. This weight test is important.

5—BROAD FLAT TRACTION SURFACE. A broad flat tread wears away more slowly than the small rubber on the end of a pencil. So with tires—the tread that is broad and flat lasts much longer than one with small projections. Note Michelin's superiority in this respect.

6—MODERATE PRICES. Despite their high quality and superior design Michelin Casings and Inner Tubes are moderate in price. The truth of this statement is easily proved by comparing Michelin prices with the prices asked for other tires of anything like the same quality.

In view of the fact that Michelin has devoted 24 years and all his world-wide resources to the manufacture of pneumatic tires exclusively, are you not willing to test Michelines on your own car and be convinced?

Nothing proves Michelin superiority like actual use.

GERMANY'S CHOICE; NOT ALLIES' RESPONSIBILITY.

It is going to take more than the lucid outbursts of the German delegates at the Peace Congress and the glib comments of the German press in Berlin on the severity of the peace terms, to make the average American believe that another game of bluff is not being played. Of course, it was not expected that expressions of pleasure and satisfaction would be heard when the full intent and meaning of the peace terms were understood by the Germans. That protest would be made against many of the stringent provisions of the treaty there has never been doubt, hence no surprise is occasioned by the extravagant declarations emanating from many German sources.

Upon their appearance at Versailles, and throughout the proceedings incident to handing the treaty terms to the German delegates, they have displayed an insolent and arrogant attitude. They have so fully cooled their bores that the loud mouthings to which they are now giving utterance are to be regarded only as a more exaggerated form of the while the Germans have made against every repressive measure the Allies have found it necessary to apply, beginning with the terms of the armistice. Consequently America will not be disposed to become at all alarmed at either the veiled or outspoken threats of the representatives of this very much humiliated but still unrepentant nation.

With the presentation of the peace terms Germany has fully realized that the time for a settlement of accounts has come, and the distasteful fact is being forced upon the consciousness of her representatives that in this settlement their nation is not privileged to assume the role of negotiator. The only alternative is to sign or refuse to sign. Having obstinately refused to admit responsibility for starting the war that has led to her undoing as a great power, Germany has indulged the delusion that she could win an "easy peace" by some sort of dicker or barter at the peace table. Confronted with the unyielding purpose of the Allies to require a ditated, not a negotiated, peace, the chastened German delegates are finding expression in a wide variety of ill-tempered ravings and intemperate and boastful threats.

The delegates evidently came to Versailles with the impression that they could offer all sorts of counter proposals, debate the subject endlesly if need be, while striving with all the arts of diplomacy to trick the Allies into a compromise settlement.

Failed in this plan the delegates, backed by the junkers at home, are raising a tremendous bluster. It is looking nobody, but it is giving rise to the suspicion that it is being used as a means of saving the face of the Ebert government, or at least to ease its fall, which seems to be the certain consequence of the terrific shock to German hopes the tender of the peace terms has produced.

Conditions in Germany seem to be rapidly approaching that point where the present government will totter to a fall whether the peace treaty is signed or not. If signed, the people will hold the Ebert regime responsible for all the evil consequences now predicted as certain to follow from what is associated will be "slavery." If not signed, the same group will have to answer to the people of Germany for the burden imposed by the Allied occupancy of Germany made necessary by non-compliance with the terms of the treaty.

Having evidenced no desire to be fair, presented no evidence of regret for the great wrong done civilization, and lacking generous impulses of every kind, Germany has missed the greatest of her opportunities to begin a restoration of herself in the grace and favor of the rest of the world. If she prefers to stubbornly persist in her attitude the Allies can well afford to take as she assume all the peril and risk that is involved. If not now ready to pay the price, Germany will simply have to pay it later, and with compound interest. It is her choice, not the Allies' responsibility.

PREDICTION OR INDICATION?

Are we to construe President Wilson's remarks concerning war-time prohibition as a long distance prediction of weather conditions after July 1, or as an indication of his change of heart on the "wet" or "dry" issue?

To a representative of the American Federation of Labor at Paris he is reported to have said:

"If I find on my return to Washington that the sentiment of the people of the United States is unmistakeably opposed to the country going dry
July 1, I shall exercise the authority
I possess to set aside the provisions of the July 1 law."

The Huns are beginning to discover that they can't get away with it.
That's what hurts.

Can we indulge the hope that the resignation styles set by the Industrial Board will be generally followed at Washington during the early summer months?

Hear the Huns howl!

The coke industry is somewhat on the bum at Davidson just now but that is no reason why the coke oven hum industry should be allowed to thrive there.

It will soon be Austria's turn to face the music.

General Ludendorff, in commenting upon the peace terms, is reported to have said: "If these are the peace terms—America can go to hell!" Out of the question, Lud. There's standing room left for but one person and that is reserved for a certain Hun general.

Remember that tomorrow is sacred to the hallowed memories of mother if she has passed beyond, and set aside to remind you of the obligations you owe to her if still living. In either case proper appreciation cannot be shown without your presence at church.

The German peace delegates are not finding the atmosphere of Versailles to be conducive to restful sleep.

A VANISHED JOY.

When I was but a little lad of six and seven and eight.

One joy I knew that has been lost in this time up-to-date.

Than Saturday was baking day and mother used to make.

The while I stood about and watched the Sunday pie and cake.

And I was there to have fulfilled a small boy's fondest wish.

The glorious privilege of youth—to scrape the frosting dish.

On Saturdays I never left to wander far away, sweet mother.

I hovered near the kitchen door on mother's baking day.

The fragrant smell of cooking seemed to hold me to its grip.

And naught cared I for other sports
while there were sweets to sip.

I little cared that all my chums had sought the brook to fish.

I chose to wait that moment glad when
I could scrape the dish.

Full many a slice of apple I have lifted from a pie.

Before the upper crust went on, especially mother's eye.

Full many a time my fingers small in artfulness have strayed.

Into the sweet temptation rare which mother's hands had made.

But eager-eyed and watery-mouthed,
I craved the greater boon.

Of being allowed to clean the dish and lick the frosting spoon.

The baking days of old are gone, our children cannot know.

The glorious days that childhood owned and loved so long ago.

New customs change the lives of all and in their practices way.

They've robbed us of the glad event
once known as baking day.

The stores provide for every need, yet
many a time I wish.

Our kids could know that bygone thrill and scrape the frosting dish.

INVEST!

Your Country Needs Your Aid.

Do Not Delay in Giving It.

The war demonstrated to the people of this country
the fact that thrift must supplant brawn and bravery.
Thirty millions of our people have already tested the results of investment in Liberty Loans, and they would now give greater consideration to the direct and indirect benefits to be derived from being a subscriber to the Victory Loan. The Victory Loan symbolizes a purpose and possibilities that are more significant and far reaching than anything in world history. The money you loan the Government goes to the both ends of the string and thus put the finishing touches to a job which was so well begun.
Up to now our success has been marvelous, but achieved at a heavy expenditure of blood and treasure. Therefore, do not permit the last installment of a great forward movement to fail. It is up to you to see that not a part of this great work shall suffer from neglect. Fayette county oversubscribed her share in the First Liberty Loan; Fayette county oversubscribed her share in the Second Liberty Loan; Fayette county oversubscribed her share in the Third Liberty Loan; Fayette County oversubscribed her share in the Fourth Liberty Loan; Fayette county will oversubscribe her share in the Victory Liberty Loan.

MICHELIN TIRE COMPANY HISTORY IS INTERESTING

Fire Auto Tire Developed by French Owner in 1893; Business Grew With Rapidity.

A review of the history of the world-wide Michelin organization is very interesting and instructive, and this history, interwoven as it has been with the invention and development of the automobile itself, is a story of great local pride of the people of Milltown and New Brunswick.

In 1852 a Frenchman most enterprising and progressive for that period began the manufacture of rubber goods in Clermont-Ferrand, France. He was the grandfather of M. Michelin, today president of the great Michelin tire factories, which rank as the standard institutions of their kind in France, England, Italy and America.

In 1891 M. Edouard Michelin was made president of the French company. In 1896 he became a pioneer in the attempt to use pneumatic tires on automobiles. The following year he proved his theories by constructing the first successful automobile tires ever made.

Although the Michelin factory in France is by far the largest tire factory in the world, the demands upon it from other countries soon began to seriously interfere with the turning out of its home product.

With characteristic shrewdness and frugality M. Michelin decided that inasmuch as he had to build another factory anyhow, he would build it in London instead of France, and thus save the cost of transshipping the completed tires to their market.

But it was not a time that this London factory relieved its parent in France from the pressure of foreign business. In 1906 it became necessary to establish another plant in Turin, Italy, to lessen the strain of the demand from southern Europe, which was growing heavier and heavier; and then the American automobile market began to boom.

Finally M. Michelin came over to this country and looked carefully over the ground, investigating conditions and talking with importers of Michelin tires. His visit filled him with enthusiasm and resulted in the establishment in 1907 of the latest Michelin factory, the great plant at Milltown.

OBJECTIONS TO THE TRACTION ENGINE LAW ARE TO BE REMOVED

Tractors and Other Farm Implements Will Be Exempted from Provisions of the Senate Bill.

HARRISBURG, May 9.—The State Highway Department has recommended certain changes in Senate bill No. 796, which amends the traction engine law of June 8, 1915. These changes correct objections to the measure raised by agricultural interests at a hearing held by the House roads committee Tuesday.

The Highway Department suggests that agricultural implements be exempted in the clause which provides that "no traction engine, trailer or other vehicle shall be moved over any highway or bridge in excess of 14 tons—vehicle and load combined, nor shall any such engine, vehicle or contrivance be moved—which has any clanks, revolving belts or chains, rills, clamps and clents."

The bill excludes from the provisions of the act all agricultural trailers, such as farm machinery, water or coal wagons, or similar vehicles, insofar as charges for licenses are concerned.

It is suggested that the provision that all tractors not equipped so as to conform with the requirements of the act must comply with regulations prior to November 1, 1919, be changed so as to extend the time to January 1, 1920, the Highway department believing that this extension is only fair to the interests involved.

SUMMARY OF PEACE TREATY AS GIVEN FOR

New York, May 7.—An official summary of the peace treaty delivered to the German delegates at Versailles by the representatives of the Associated Powers, was made public here today by the committee on public information. It reads:

Paris, May 7.—The treaty of peace between the 27 Allied and Associated Powers on the one hand and Germany on the other, was handed to the German plenipotentiaries at Versailles today.

It is the longest treaty ever drawn. It totals about 80,000 words divided into 15 main sections and represents the combined product of over 1,000 experts working continually through a series of commissions since January 1918.

The preamble, which names as parties to the one part the United States, the British Empire, France, Italy and Japan, described as the Allied and Associated Powers, and Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, China, Cuba, Ecuador, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, the Netherlands, Honduras, Liberia, Nicaragua, Panama, Peru, Portugal, Romania, Serbia, Siam, Czechoslovakia, and Uruguay, who with the five above are described as the Allied and Associated Powers, and on the other part, Germany.

It states that: Bearing in mind that on the request of the then imperial German government an armistice was granted on November 11, 1918, by the Allied and Associated Powers in order that a treaty of peace might be concluded with her, and whereas the Allied and Associated Powers being equally desirous that the war in which they were successfully involved directly or indirectly and which originated in the declaration of war by Austria-Hungary on July 23, 1914, against Serbia, the declaration of war by Germany against Russia on August 1, 1914, and against France on August 3, 1914, and the invasion of Belgium, should be replaced by a firm, just and durable peace, the plenipotentiaries having communicated their full powers found in good and due form have agreed as follows:

From the coming into force of the present treaty the state of war will terminate. From the moment of signature to the provisions of this treaty official relations with Germany, and with each of the German states, will be resumed by the Allied and Associated Powers.

League of Nations Outlined.—Section 1: League of Nations.—The covenant of the League of Nations constitutes Section 1 of the peace treaty, which places upon the league many specific duties in addition to its general duties.

Membership.—The members of the league will be the signatories of the covenant and other states invited to accede. A state may withdraw upon giving two years' notice.

A permanent secretariat will be established at the seat of the league, which will be at Geneva. The assembly will consist of representatives of the members of the league. Each member will have one vote and not more than three representatives.

The council will consist of representatives of the five great Allied powers, together with representatives of four members selected by the assembly from time to time.

Arms Limitations.—The council will formulate plans for a reduction of armaments. These plans will be revised every 10 years. Once they are adopted, no member may exceed the armaments fixed without the concurrence of the council. All members will exchange full information as to armaments at once.

Preventing of War.—Upon any war or threat of war, the council will meet to consider what common action shall be taken. Members are pledged to submit matters of dispute to arbitration or inquiry and not to resort to war until three months after the award. Members agree to carry out an arbitral award and not to go to war with any party to the dispute, which complies with it; if a member fails to carry out the award the council will propose the necessary measures. Members who do not submit their case to arbitration must accept the jurisdiction of the assembly. If the council, less the parties to the dispute, is unanimously agreed upon the rights of it, the members agree that they will not go to war with any party to the dispute which complies with its recommendations. Members resorting to war in disregard of the covenant will immediately be debarrd from all intercourse with other members.

Treaties Must Be Registered.—Validity of treaties.—All treaties or international engagements concluded after the institution of the league will be registered with the secretariat and published. The covenant abrogates all obligations between members inconsistent with its terms, but nothing in it shall affect the validity of international engagements such as treaties of arbitration or regional understandings like the Monroe Doctrine for securing the maintenance of peace.

The mandatory system.—The tutelage of nations not yet able to stand by themselves will be entrusted to advanced nations who are best fitted to undertake it.

General International Provisions.—The members of the league will in general endeavor through the international organization established by the labor convention to secure and maintain fair conditions of labor for men, women and children in their own countries and other countries, and undertake to secure just treatment of the native inhabitants of territories under their control.

Amendments to the Covenant.—Amendments to the covenant will take effect when ratified by the council and by a majority of the signatories.

Section 2: Boundaries of Germany.—Germany cedes to France Alsace-Lorraine, 3,600 square miles, and to Belgium two small districts between Luxembourg and Holland, totaling 800 square miles. She also cedes to Poland the southeastern tip of Silesia between and including Oppeln, most of the Rhine, 27,686 square miles, East Prussia being isolated from the main body by a part of Poland. She loses sovereignty over the northeasternmost tip of East Prussia, 40 square miles north of the river Memel, and the internationalized areas about Danzig, 39 square miles, and the basin of the Saar, 738 square miles, between the western border of the Rhine and the Palatinate of Bavaria and the northeast corner of Luxembourg. The southeastern third of East Prussia and the area between East Prussia and the Vistula north of latitude 53 degrees 3 minutes is to have its nationality determined by popular vote, 5,738 square miles, as is to be the case in part of Silesia, 2,781 square miles.

Belgium.—Germany is to consent to the abrogation of the treaties of 1839 by which Belgium was established as a neutral state, and to agree in advance to any convention with which the allied and associated powers may determine to replace them. She is to recognize the full sovereignty of Belgium over the contested territory of Moresnet, and over-part of Eupen and Malmedy, and to recognize in favor of Belgium all rights over the circles of Eupen and Malmedy, the inhabitants of which are to be against within six months to protest against this change of sovereignty either in whole or in part, the final decision is to be reserved to the League of Nations.

To Renounce Luxembourg.—Luxembourg.—Germany renounces her various treaties and conventions with the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, recognizes that it ceased to be a part of the German Zollverein from January 1, 1918, and renounces all right of exploitation of the railroads.

Left Bank of the Rhine.—Germany will not maintain any fortifications or armed forces less than 50 kilometers to the east of the Rhine; hold any maneuvers, nor maintain any works to facilitate mobilization. In case of violation she shall be regarded as committing a hostile act against the powers who sign the present treaty and as intending to disturb the peace of the world.

Alsace-Lorraine.—After recognition of the moral obligation to repair the wrong done in 1871 by Germany to France and the people of Alsace-Lorraine, the territories ceded to Germany by the Treaty of Frankfurt are restored to France with their frontiers as before 1871, to date from the signing of the armistice, and to be free of all public debts.

All public property and all private property of German ex-sovereigns passes to France without payment or credit. France is substituted for Germany as regards ownership of the railroads and rights over concessions of tramways. The Rhine bridges pass to France with the obligation for their upkeep.

The Saar Coal Mines.—The Saar.—In compensation for the destruction of coal mines in Northern France and as payment on account of reparations, Germany cedes to France full ownership of the coal mines of the Saar basin with their subsidiaries, accessories and facilities.

Czechoslovakia.—Germany recognizes the entire independence of the Czechoslovak state, including the autonomous territory of the Ruthenians south of the Carpathians.

Poland.—Germany cedes to Poland the greater part of Upper Silesia, Posen and the province of West Prussia on the left bank of the Vistula.

The five Allied and Associated Powers will draw up regulations assuring East Prussia full and equitable access to and use of the Vistula. A subsequent convention, of which the terms will be fixed by the five Allied and Associated Powers, will be entered into between Poland, Germany and Danzig to assure suitable railroad accommodations across German territory between Poland and Danzig, while Poland shall grant free passage from East Prussia to Germany. The northeastern corner of East Prussia about Memel is to be ceded by Germany to the Associated Powers.

Danzig.—Danzig and the district immediately about it is to be constituted into the "free city of Danzig," under the guarantee of the League of Nations.

Denmark.—The frontier between Germany and Denmark will be fixed by the self-determination of the population. Ten days from the peace, German troops and authorities shall evacuate the region north of the line running from the mouth of the Schlei, south of Kappell, Schleswig and Friedrichshafen along the Eider to the North-Sea south of Tönning.

Heligoland.—The fortified works, fortresses and field works situated in the islands of Heligoland and Düne are to be destroyed under the supervision of the Allies by German labor and at Germany's expense.

Russia.—Germany agrees to respect as permanent and inalienable the independence of all territories which were part of the former Russian empire, to accept the abrogation of the Brest-Litovsk and other treaties entered into with the Maximilianist government of Russia, to recognize the full force of all treaties entered into by the Allied and Associated Powers with the states which were a part of the former Russian empire, and to recognize the frontiers as determined thereon.

Colonial Possessions Go to Allies.—Section 5: German Rights Outside Europe.—Outside Europe, Germany renounces all rights, titles and privileges as to her own or her Allies' territories to which the Allied and Associated Powers, and undertakes to accept whatever measures are taken by the five Allied Powers in relation thereto.

Colonies and Overseas Possessions.—Germany renounces in favor of the Allied and Associated Powers her overseas possessions, with all rights and titles therein. All movable and immovable property belonging to the German empire or to any German state shall pass to the government exercising authority thereon.

China.—Germany renounces in favor of China all privileges and immunities resulting from the Boxer protocol of 1901 and all buildings, wharves, barracks, forts, munitions or warships, wireless plants and other public establishments in the German concessions of Tien Tsin and Hankow and in other Chinese territory except Kiao Chow.

Germany accepts the abrogation of the concessions at Hankow and Tien Tsin. Germany renounces all claims against China or any Allied or Associated government for the internment or repatriation of her citizens in China and for the seizure or liquidation of German interests there since August 14, 1917.

Siam.—Germany recognizes that all agreements between herself and Siam, including the right of extra-territoriality, ceased July 22, 1917. All German public property except consular and diplomatic premises passes without compensation to Siam. Germany waives all claims against Siam for the seizure and condemnation of her ships, liquidation of her property, or internment of her nationals.

CHAPTER VII.

Captain Dubois.
Clang! Clang!
It sounded as though some titanic blacksmith were pounding on a mighty anvil to a devil's chorus of laughter. And I was bound to the steel, and each blow awakened hideous echoes which went resounding through my brain forever.

Clang! Clang!
I strove to free myself. I knew that it was a dream from which I must awaken, for the fate of the whole world depended on my awakening from the bonds of sleep.
It would be so easy to sink down into a deeper slumber, where even the changing of the anvil beneath those hammer strokes would no longer be heard; but against this was the imperative need to save—not the world now, but—

The same was as sweet as honey upon my lips. It was something worth living for. It was—Jacqueline!
That name—Annette—Jeanette—Jacqueline!

I had gone back to my room and saw a body upon the floor. Jacqueline had killed somebody, and I must save her!
Suddenly I realized that my eyes were wide open and that I was staring at the moon over the house-top. With consciousness came pain. My head throbbed almost unbearably, and I was stiff with cold. I raised myself weakly, and then I became aware that somebody was bending over me.

It was a roughly dressed, rough-looking denizen of the lower quarter into which I had strayed.
"Diab! I thought you were dead!" I could make out amid the stream of his speech was beyond my understanding. I looked around in bewilderment.
"Where am I?" I asked, still found by that first memory of New York.
"In Sous-le-Cap, monsieur," answered the man.

I felt in my pocket for my watch and drew it out. It was strange that the men had not robbed me, but I suppose they had become terrified at my work and had run off. However I did not think of that at the time.

It was a few minutes past eight. And the boat sailed at nine. I must have lain stunned in Sous-le-Cap street for an hour and a half, at least, and only the supreme necessity of awakening, realized through unconsciousness, had saved me from dying under the snows.

I found that I could walk, and having explained to the man that I wished to go to the Chateau, was taken by him to the top of a winding road, near at hand, from which I could see my destination at no great distance from me.

Dismissing my friendly guide and sending him back rejoicing with liberal largesse, I hurried as quickly as I could make my way until I burst into the Chateau at half past the hour.

I must have presented a dreadful spectacle, for my hair and collar were matted with blood, and I saw the guests stare and shrink from me. The clerk came toward me and stopped me at the entrance to the elevator.
"Where is Miss Hewlett?" I gasped.
"Didn't you meet her? She left here nearly an hour ago."

I caught him by the arm, and I think he imagined that I was going to seize him by the throat also, for he backed away from me, and I saw a look of fear come into his eyes.

"Your friend came for her and said that you had met with an accident," the clerk continued. "She went with him at once. He took her away in a sleigh. I was sure that you had missed her when you came in."

But already I was half way across the hall and reaching the door. I raced wildly across the court and toward the terrace.

The meaning of the scheme was clear. Jacqueline was on Captain Dubois's boat, which sailed at nine, and only twenty minutes remained to me.

I had underestimated Leroux's shrewdness. He must have telegraphed instructions from New York before my trip was out of the country, secured the boat, laid his plans during his journey northward, and had me struck down while Jacqueline was stolen from my care. I should have read him better. I had always dined. I trusted to the future instead of acting. What chance had I against a mind like his?

I must have been running aimlessly up and down the terrace, blindly searching for a road down to the lower town, for a man seized me by the sleeve and I looked into the face of the hotel clerk again.

"This way!" he said, and hurried me to a sort of subway entrance and down a flight of steps. Before me I saw the turnstile which led to a cable railway. He paid my fare and thrust me into a car. A boy came to close the hinged door.

The car glided down the cliff and stopped a few seconds later. I emerged through another turnstile and found myself in the lower town again at the foot of the precipice, above which rose the Chateau with its imposing facade, the ramparts and the towering citadel.

I reached the wharf and raced along the piers. I was in time, although the engines were throbbing in the Sainte-Vierge. But it was not she, but the dark Claire I sought at that moment, and I dashed toward her.

caught me in his strong arms and held me fast.
"Diab! Are you mad, monsieur?" he burst out as I continued to struggle. And then I recognized my captor as Captain Dubois.

"Jacqueline is on the Claire!" I cried, trying to make him understand. "They took her there. They—"

"It is all right," answered Dubois, holding me with one hand, while with the other he wiped a blood drop from his lip where I had struck him. "It is all right. I have her."

"No, mon ami. She is aboard the Sainte-Vierge," replied Dubois, chuckling. "and if you wish to accompany mademoiselle you must come with me at once, for we are getting up steam."

I could not believe him. I thought that Leroux had tampered with the honest man. It was not until he had taken me, half forcibly, aboard and opened the door that I saw her.

"Jacqueline!" I cried, and clasped her in my arms for joy, and quite forgot.

A dancing shadow fell upon the wall behind the oil lamp. The honest captain was rubbing his hands in the doorway and chuckling with delight.

"It is all right. It is all right; excuse me, monsieur," he said. "But what has happened to you, monsieur? You have met with an accident?"

Jacqueline cried out and ran for water, made me sit down, and began bathing my head. I continued to whisper something of what had occurred.

Dubois Swore Roundly.

During the moments when Jacqueline fitted to and fro, Dubois swore roundly.

"It is my fault, monsieur," he said. "I should have known. I should have accompanied you home. But I was anxious to get to the telegraph office to inform M. Danton of your coming. And I suspected something, too, for I knew that Leroux had something more in his mind than simply to convey some of his men to St. Boniface at such expense. Mademoiselle knows nothing of the plot against her, and has been greatly distressed for you. So it shall be understood that you fell down and hurt your head on the ice—"

I agreed to this. "But what did she think?" I asked, as Jacqueline went back for some more water.

"That you had sent her to the Sainte-Vierge," he answered, "and that you were to follow her here—as you did. Parbleu!"

"One question of curiosity, monsieur, if it is permissible," he said a little later. "Why does Leroux wish so much to stop your marriage with mademoiselle that he is ready to stoop to assassination and kidnapping?"

"Because he is himself in love with her," I said.

The captain clenched his fists. "God forbid!" he murmured. "They say his wife died of a broken heart. Ah, monsieur, swear to me that this shall never come about, that mademoiselle become his wife. Swear it to me, mon ami!"

I swore it, and we shook hands. Five minutes later we had cast off, and the Sainte-Vierge steamed slowly through the drift ice that packed the gulf. There were no lights upon the Claire, and I surmised that the conspirators were keeping quietly hidden in expectation of Jacqueline's arrival; though how Dubois had outwitted them I could not at the time surmise.

Then I sought my cabin and fell asleep, dreaming of Jacqueline.

THE SOISSON.

"SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE."—A story from the successful play by Germaine Bonner and Hutchinson Boyd, adapted by Julia Crawford Ivers, is being shown today, with Constance Talmadge, the charming Select star in the leading role. The story has to do with the efforts of a pretty and neglected wife to win back her husband. The husband, John Constable, is a writer, and the wife, under the influence of a designing widow, who is assisting him in writing a book on "Woman's Struggles." But Kitty, John's wife, remarks that it is the widow who is struggling to land John. When John goes to see the widow on his wife's birthday, instead of taking his wife to the opera in accordance with his promise, the woman turns and pretends to be ill. Kitty begins to plan ways and means to punish her husband. Not until the next morning are things explained, and John Constable, who has been given a letter, is rejoiced to find that all is well and that his wife still loves him. Constance has been called the "girl whose merry laugh can be heard even in silent drama." In "Sauce for the Goose," she has one of the best picture comedies of her successful young career. A selected comedy is also being shown. Monday and Tuesday, "Men," an interesting production, featuring an all star cast will be shown.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE WOMAN'S LAW."—From the novel by Maryne Thompson, is being shown today. Florence Reed is supported by Duncan McKee and other players of prominence, is seen in a splendid role, that of a young woman who withdraws from society with a sense of shame for her husband, who has forfeited his wife's affections by his notorious infidelities. Orcutt plays a friend as the result of a quarrel over a woman and with fear of the law he tells his wife all, and she, in an attempt to save him, starts for the office of her friend, the district attorney. On her way she comes upon a man who is a living, double of her husband. The stranger is sitting on a park bench, his mind stunned by a terrific shock. She takes the unsuspecting man to her home and Orcutt flees. The man is committed to an asylum, from which he is later released and goes to live at her Orcutt home. He cannot remember who his home is. Meanwhile, the real George Orcutt, returning home for money, is mistaken for a burglar and is shot by the butler. With him out of the way the situation is relieved. The man recovers his memory and knows he is Keith Edgerton, the death of whose parents caused amnesia. Then he and Gail marry. A selected comedy is also being shown.

THE COURIER COMPANY

BUYERS SHOW LACK OF CONFIDENCE IN PRICES FOR STEEL

Hand to Mouth Policy Being Pursued, the Belief Being That Commodity Prices Will Sag But Slowly.

SPECIAL TO THE COURIER.

NEW YORK, May 7.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trades tomorrow as follows:

The leaders of the steel industry are evidently convinced in their own minds that there is no large amount of latent steel demand to be developed by price competition. All buyers show their lack of confidence in steel prices by buying in the most hand to mouth manner. There seems to be more fear of what competitive conditions in steel would produce than there is occasion for, since it is becoming well established that commodity prices in general are going to sag but slowly, and it was not explained why steel should be an exception if left to its own devices.

The Industrial Board has arranged for a meeting to be held between the steel producers and the Railroad Administration tomorrow, in New York. The Industrial Board is still attempting to do something in steel. In the case of coal a regular and more or less open market has now obtained for several weeks, and despite Industrial Board theories the various railroads are buying coal from time to time, the operators being well satisfied to make the sales. Prices depend upon quality, there being much variety in coal. The meeting between the steel industry and the Railroad Administration promises no direct results, not even a sentimental influence upon the steel market as a whole. The railroads are in no position to buy anything like a large tonnage of steel.

AMONG THE SENIORS.

(By Charles Shertz)

A meeting of the Senior Class was held last Tuesday night. Miss Armstrong related the plans for the coming Class Day which event promises to be bigger and better than all former Class Day exercises. She also laid down some strict rules which must be adhered to by those taking part in it. These mostly referred to the regularity at the practices and the importance of such. After this Mr. Smith gave his hints to the Seniors about the requirements for the coming events and the importance of getting busy on them now. After these plans were discussed and officers of the class were elected.

The officers who will preside for the remainder of the term are: William Buttermore, president; James Howard Robinson, vice president; William Behanna, secretary; Ralph Henry, treasurer. With such a capable body of officers there should be no reason why this class cannot "wind up" its term in High School better than any former classes.

On account of the absence of Miss Baker, who was called away suddenly because of the illness and death of her aunt, practice for the Class play was held up the early part of the week but it is now going along all right.

Practice for the Class Day exercises will begin Monday, May 12th.

Heard quite frequently among Seniors:

"How many book reports do you have?"

"Really I don't know how many invitations to get. I have so many to send them to."

"Do we have till the last day to have our experiments in?"

"Gee, I wish we didn't have to wear caps and gowns. I am getting a bird of a dress and people won't see it."

"I wonder if any teacher will be mean enough to flunk me out?"

"Are you getting engraved or printed cards?"

"Oh! Shucks! I wish I was a Freshman!"

"Do you intend to carry a bunch of red roses to commencement?"

The other day in Economics Mr. Allison asked, "Frances, what's the difference between 'indoor and outdoor' relief?"

Frances Rhodes: "Why I don't see any difference, they're both given inside. After which Mr. Allison asked what would it be called if you gave dinner out on the back porch?"

SOPHOMORE SAYINGS.

(By Ruth Clark)

The Sophomores' best friends, the Seniors, are leaving us soon. We regret their departure but we wish them much success in the future. The Sophomores have enjoyed their friendly relations with the Seniors and it is with sorrow, mingled with wellwishing, that we contemplate this "parting of the ways."

Miss McLeod: "Give me a date in French."

Helen: "Hut, henrie."

Miss McLeod: "But that's 8 o'clock."

Helen Morris: "Well, that's a date isn't it?"

Miss Long: "What are oblique angles?"

Beggs Fupit: "Angles that are neither right nor straight."

Luella: "Oh, the wicked things."

Catherine Stauffer feels that she is sadly misjudged. (Miss Lyons said the other day: "It happened years ago. Do you remember that?")

After failing in the attempt to leave the room unobserved by the teacher, Lynn said: "Miss Lyon, please may I get a drink? I am going to evaporate in a minute."

Looking very startled, Miss Lyon replied: "Lynn, go to Mr. Smith this minute."

Miss Powers, while reviewing for a test, was telling the pupils where their weak points were. She said: "You will have to get your teeth straightened." (meaning the names of the teeth).

Miss Powers: "Stuart, what is the throat (chest cavity)?"

Stuart: "It's the tube that leads from the mouth to the stomach."

A class in Biology was giving the different steps in digestion. Miss Powers turning to Harmon said: "Harmon, the food is in the mouth now. Where does it go next?"

Harmon: "Down the trachea (wind pipe)."

Harmon must choke quite often.

Viola Bower: "In the chapters for tomorrow, does it mean that they crossed the Rhine not far from where it flew into the sea?"

Miss Delin: (smiling) "Don't let the river get up in the air. Keep it on the ground, please, as I do not wish to be drowned yet."

EDITORIAL.

During the Senior meeting held in Study Hall after school Tuesday, Mr. Smith mentioned among other important things, the advisability of those Seniors who are intending to enter colleges this fall to get their entrance blanks now.

Most Seniors, however, have chosen their school and by this time know all that is required of them to enter. With the knowledge of what is required of them to take up college work they have also discovered things are required which they neglected to prepare while in High School. This last item is probably one of the largest factors that go to disappoint Seniors when their hopes are at the highest at this time of the year. They must then either content themselves with a secondary school or drop the project altogether. As far as the Seniors are concerned they do not need to be advised further on this matter but it should be a topic of great importance and interest among the Sophomores and Juniors.

In these two years of schooling students have the best and only opportunity to pick the studies that will be required of them and avoid the rush that must necessarily take place when they are in their Senior year.

It is therefore advisable for all students in these years and also those students in the lower class to investigate and see what might be required of them and seize the opportunity now to build up an education in the right subjects so they will not be disappointed when the times comes for them to enter college.

Behind the Scenes.

This part of Pocahontas was not heard by the audience last Friday and Saturday night.

(Usher: "It's been a long time since I wore short trousers and lace frills.")

Al Hunt: "Yes, two years is a long while. Look at me though. Could anyone have imagined my face painted up like this?"

Queen Anne: "Hush, you two. How can I look dignified if you keep that nonsense up?"

Pow-hat-on: "Yes that's what I say. (Aside) I only wish I could get rid of these feathers. One of them is down my back."

An Meek: "Who has just finished singing, 'There is not sufficient fish'?"

"Yes I even felt like a fish when I was singing that song."

Lady Bird: "I haven't had so much powder and paint on my face since—"

Wah-wah-tay-seg: "Yesterday. Never mind Lady Bird, they used to tell me at home that I was an Indian and from the looks of me now I guess they were right."

John Smith: "Did any of you hear anything rip when Pow-hat-on ordered me to kneel?"

John Rolfe: "Say Savilla, do you think Margaret will condescend to look at me after I get out of this costume?"

Pocahontas: "Sure she will, Ralph. Don't let that discourage you. You can pity me when I hit that high C in the next song."

The High School volleyball team finished their season Thursday after school. The season has been very successful.

Miss Gilmora, with some of the pupils of her assembly, took lunch and went out to Willis road. They had an enjoyable time.

JUNIOR JOTTINGS.

(By Earl Luchus)

After the good report of the High School pupils selling the tickets for the play "Pocahontas" they were requested to sell tickets for the moving picture show for the benefit of the soldiers. According to the report they did very well in this also.

Overheard in Miss Baker's assembly room:

Ruthella Bixler: "Paul, won't you buy a ticket from me?"

Paul Driscoll: "If I buy two, will you go?"

In the Cicero class the other day Cicero was telling about a king of Asia who had been driven from his kingdom and had never touched that spot of earth again.

Miss Della: "Phoebe, translate."

Phoebe: "—and after he was driven from his kingdom he never touched the ground again."

Oh No! Nanna Hood is not sick, she is only thinking how to bring Lulu Long to Connelville.

During the last period Wednesday morning a sound was heard from without—"Bobbie." Just then Roger said, "Bob your mamma wants you."

While reading "Americanism" in shorthand class a bright student spoke up and asked: "Did Roosevelt write this after his death?"

Miss Davidon (to Carrie Jane M.): "Describe transportation in Chicago."

Carrie Jane M.: "They have elevated subways for freights."

Frank Reynolds in English: "Rain is past because yesterday is past."

Frank is good (?) at conjugation.

Miss Berg: "William, is fishing an important industry in the Central States?"

William Ellis: "No, it is not."

Miss Berg: "Why?"

William: "Because there is no fish."

C. H. S. is a good school all around. Not a better in Fayette County can be found.

But some of these days, you will meet a fool.

Who will laugh and scoff at our school?

His "upper floor" is surely "for rent" and his head may reveal a little dent; We must give him up in total despair; As his poor head is in need of repair; Just rap on that head, if you would do a good deed.

For what brains he has, are going to seed.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.
